

PERSONAL JOURNALISM.

The Star gives the Examiner this hard and well merited rap.

It used to be the exclusive function of the Chronicle to drag private affairs with which no one but the parties affected had any concern, into the public press, thus ruining the reputation of w men and the happiness of families. But after Charles De Young was killed its manners improved. Its mantle has now fallen, apparently, upon the Examiner. A young couple eloped, were married, and returned, when the parents, who made no objection to the marriage, received them cordially. There was nothing unusual about that, we would think, that could be worth mentioning in print at all. But the news ghouls were hungry, and so pressed it into service, giving not only the names of the parties and their relatives, but of two young women who were alleged to have been previously intimate with the groom. This is outrageous. The persons who are responsible for the villany have no the rights even of skunks, much less of men. We believe in a free press, as to the expression of opinions; but when it comes to dragging people's affairs into unsought publicity, a line should be drawn. It should not be tolerated. We hope that some time such an example will be made of some one as will keep the daily press decent for a few years afterwards.

Plain English.

Jim Barry in the Star has this to say of the Gould wedding:

If Miss Gould, who has paid three million dollars for a foreign "Count" is not a prostitute, what is she? Compare her with the poor unfortunates who are compelled to sell their bodies for bread! She sells both her body and soul for an empty title.

The Star seems to have got the two mixed up. It was the Count who sold himself, and he got a good sound price. Just what the figures are no one knows definitely, but the divorce proceedings will probably develop the fact.

Consolidating Four Counties.

Boyle's bill providing for the consolidation of Storey, Ormsby, Lyon and Douglas, will result in a saving of $40,000 a year in the expenses of running the four counties under one Government. The county seat will be Carson, and the name of the county will be Carson county. This would make a good sized county with a centrally located county seat, and be a considerable saving to the taxpayers.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Senator White of California has introduced a bill which provides that in all entries of placer mines made under the provisions of the Revised Statutes by associations, or persons, or their assigns, proof of discovery of minerals on such twenty acres of land embraced by the entries shall not be required, but proofs of discovery of minerals and development thereof on any part of the entire land shall be deemed sufficient. It is provided, however, that the full amount of $500 must be expended for the development of each claim, as now required by law.

Yesterday Dr. Bergstein, of the State Insane Asylum, appeared before the Senate, Committee of the Whole, to explain the necessity for an annex to the Asylum. Owing to the crowded condition of that institution, not only is its curative efficiency interfered with, but the inmates frequently receive serious physical injuries, which under present conditions is unavoidable. Fifteen thousand is asked for to build and furnish the annex, and although times are very hard, and every additional taxation seems a burden, yet in the name of humanity the bill should pass.

The bill providing for a rubber stamp to be used in voting instead of a lead pencil was lost yesterday. Under the present law, the lead pencil enables letters, curves, angles and marks to be placed on a ballot in such a way that the man who buys a vote, can ascertain if the vote was cast as bought. The old law means a lot of election contests each year.

Comins, in a speech in the Senate yesterday, said that the big corporations of the State and the moneyed men were tax shirkers, and that everybody knew it. This is such a patent fact that there is no necessity of alluding to it. It was always so, and it always will be.

The sum of $11 in fines has been collected from members under a call of the House, has been given to the Orphans' Home.

A tramp is about town beating the restaurants; also a smooth boy who is trying to raise money to reach Silver City to hunt a long lost sister. The latter has walked five times further than Silver hunting people to borrow money of.

A law has been passed in California forbidding the manufacture, sale or gift of cigarettes. The law goes into effect six months from now, in order to give dealers an opportunity of disposing of the stock they have on hand.
